Quotes and Notes

"Jesus has prayed that the Father will glorify him as he finishes the work which has been given him to do. He then prays for the disciples. The implication is clear. The disciples are the tangible expression of the completion of his work. He has come to sanctify himself, but the end result of this is that they too may be truly sanctified. So the great historic redemptive purpose of God focuses in on that little company in the upper room in Jerusalem on Passover evening, as they are about to forsake and deny their Master and scatter like panicking sheep. Yet, as Jesus knows, and bears witness in this passage, they will not be lost but become the seed of the great world-wide harvest of the last day, the glorified church who behold his glory."

- Bruce Milne, The Message of John

"If we do what God tells us, and that is 'Go into the world,' we may be sure that Jesus is praying for our protection. God promises that he will care for us if we do what he says. We might even say that Christians will be safer if we are in the world, where God wants us to be, than we will be if we retreat from it. We will be safer if we are with unbelievers in obedience to the call of Christ! If we obey him, we can be confident that he is praying for us, for we will be right where he wants us to be, and we will need the help that he is eager to give."

- Jerram Barrs, The Heart of Prayer

"The spiritual dimensions of this prayer of Jesus are consistent and overwhelming. By contrast we spend much more time today praying about our health, our projects, our decisions, our finances, our family, and even our games than we do praying about the danger of the evil one."

- D. A. Carson, Farewell Discourse and the Final Prayer of Jesus

"Q. 25. How doth Christ execute the office of a priest?
A. Christ executeth the office of a priest, in his once offering up of himself a sacrifice to satisfy divine justice, and reconcile us to God, and in making continual intercession for us."

- Westminster Shorter Catechism (1647)
