Quotes and Notes

"The lion excels in strength and in the majesty of his appearance and voice. The lamb excels in meekness and patience. . .is [sacrificed] for food. . .and. . .clothing. But we see that Christ is in the text compared to both, because the diverse excellencies of both wonderfully meet in him. . .There is in Jesus Christ. . .a conjunction of such really diverse excellencies as otherwise would have seemed to us utterly incompatible in the same subject."

-Jonathan Edwards (1703-1758), "The Excellency of Christ"

"The burden of his entry is clear. He wants to make the people of Jerusalem see that though he is their rightful king, his reign is one of peace and service; he is not the political messiah they were expecting. He has come to rule over the hearts and lives of men and women, not to kick the Romans out; but this reversed most contemporary ideas of what the kingdom should be. So while the people cried, 'Hosanna!', 'Lord, save now!' (9), and the blind and lame came to him (14), the leaders were furious."

-Michael Green, The Message of Matthew

"We face the same challenge the Israelites faced long ago. Jesus is king, but we must let him define his kingship. We must receive Jesus as he is, not as we would like him to be. We must let him come on a donkey, not a stallion. We must let him define his reign."

-Daniel Doriani, Matthew

"What person who believes that he lives from him and through him and to him will dare to make the One who encompasses in himself the life of each of us a witness of a life which does not reflect him?"

- Gregory of Nyssa (c.335-394)
