Quotes and Notes

"The new is in the old concealed; the old is in the new revealed."

- Augustine of Hippo (354-430), On the Spirit and the Letter

"All things in Scripture are not alike plain in themselves, nor alike clear unto all: yet those things which are necessary to be known, believed, and observed for salvation are so clearly propounded, and opened in some place of Scripture or other, that not only the learned, but the unlearned, in a due use of the ordinary means, may attain unto a sufficient understanding of them."

- Westminster Confession of Faith (1647), I:7

"The tent of meeting is extensively described in the book of Exodus, which you've just finished as you start the book of Leviticus. And it is the place where God meets His people. And in fact that God would even meet His people at all after what has happened in the book of Exodus, where God has worked this incredible deliverance for them, and then they have run away and worshiped the golden calf, and they have complained and grumbled against Him and made accusations against his character. It's been a grim picture of what the human heart can do and how quickly we forget how good God has been to us and look at the needs in front of us and say, "Well, He can't be good if I don't have all the things I want." But that's a side note, all that to say, the fact that Leviticus is even being written is a really good, good sign of God's grace and mercy, that He's still talking to His people, that there is still a tent of meeting, where we have conversation, where the Lord speaks to Moses so that the people will have words from Him for their life, for a relationship with Him."

- Alistair Groves, CCEF Podcast "Why Should I Read Leviticus?"

"While many Christians regard Leviticus as a burden, the Israelites looked on it as a blessing. For them, it was life-giving instruction that answered life's most important question: How do we live in relationship with the Lord, our covenant King, and how do we reflect his holy character to the watching world?"

- Jay Sklar, Leviticus

For next week: Leviticus 1
