Quotes and Notes

"We think that if we don't feel something there can be no authenticity in doing it. But the wisdom of God says something different, namely, that we can act ourselves into a new way of feeling much quicker than can feel our way into a new way of acting. Worship is an act which develops feelings for God, not a feeling for God which is expressed in an act of worship. When we obey the command to praise God in worship, our deep, essential need to be in relationship with God is nurtured."

-Eugene Peterson (1932-2018), A Long Obedience in the Same Direction

"If then the salvation of our brethren is regarded by us as an object of importance, if religion is with us a matter of heart-work, we ought, at the same time, as much as in us lies, to take an interest in the prosperity of the Church. Whence it follows, that such are indifferent about her condition, are no less cruel than impious; for if she is "the pillar and foundation of truth," the inevitable consequence of her destruction must be the extinction of true piety. And if the body is destroyed, how can each of the members fail to be involved in destruction? Farther, this passage teaches us that the Church is not an empty title, but must be sought for where the true religion prevails."

-John Calvin (1509-1564), Commentary on the Psalms

"Lord, I praise you for what the church could be—an alternative human society that shows the world your glory. But I confess I am part of what the church is, a flawed community far from reflecting your character. Give me the understanding and the love I need to become part of the solution, not the problem. Amen."

-Tim and Kathy Keller, The Songs of Jesus
