Conclusion:

Quotes and Notes

"The sad tragedy is that when many people reflect on this brute fact—that we must give an account to him, and there is no escaping his justice—almost instinctively they do the wrong thing. They resolve to take the path of self-improvement, they turn over a new leaf, they conceal or even deny the sins of frivolous youth. Thus they add to their guilt something additional—the sin of deceit.

"We dare not ask for justice—we would be crushed. But how can we hide from the God who sees everything? That is self-delusion. There is only one way forward that does not destroy us: we must be forgiven. 'Blessed is he whose transgressions are forgiven.' And what is bound up with such forgiveness? For a start, such a person will not pretend there are no sins to forgive: blessed is the man 'in whose spirit is no deceit.'"

- D. A. Carson, For the Love of God (vol. 1)

"Clearly there can be no higher human privilege than to have fellowship with the Father and with his Son, Jesus Christ. That is why John is writing the letter and that is why we are given life, for 'the chief end of man is to glorify God, and to enjoy him for ever.' But it makes a nonsense of this possibility to imagine that we can live some sort of compromise existence, with one foot as it were walking in the light with God, and the other remaining in the darkness of the world. One of the first lessons of messing about in boats is that it is impossible to exist for long with one foot in the boat and the other on the river bank. The spiritual 'splits' are equally impossible!"

- David Jackman, The Message of John's Letters

"All who walk near to God, in holiness and righteousness, are sensible that their best days and duties are mixed with sin. God has given testimony to the sinfulness of the world, by providing a sufficient, effectual Sacrifice for sin, needed in all ages; and the sinfulness of believers themselves is shown, by requiring them continually to confess their sins, and to apply by faith to the blood of that Sacrifice. Let us plead guilty before God, be humble, and willing to know the worst of our case. Let us honestly confess all our sins in their full extent, relying wholly on his mercy and truth through the righteousness of Christ, for a free and full forgiveness, and our deliverance from the power and practice of sin."

- Matthew Henry (1662-1714), Matthew Henry's Concise Commentary

We are really glad you could be with us this morning. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to ask our pastor or one of the elders. They would be glad to help you in any way they can. You can call or reach us at: www.clarksvillepca.org.
