James 1:18-21

God helps us to persevere in the trial of anger, so:

I. We should be people that are quick to hear.

II. We should be people that are slow to speak.

III. We should be people that are slow to anger.

Quotes and Notes

"This path of knowledge is not easy. We find ourselves constantly pressed from both sides. At one and the same time the old nature lures us to follow its desires and so to walk the path of sin and death, while at the same time we are being summoned to live out our true nature. This is the new nature given in the new birth, filled with new life, bound for new destinations of holiness. This is the battle of the wills—the will of the old nature, and the will of God expressed in the new nature. This clash of wills is the very heart of the life-giving conflict of which James has been teaching."

- J. A. Motyer, The Message of James

"Anger causes tongues to become unbridled and speech unguarded. Physical violence, acts of contempt, reviling, accusations, blows and other bad effects too numerous to recount are born of anger and indignation."

- Basil the Great (330-379), Sermon 10

"One man may be so placed that his anger sheds the blood of thousands, and another so placed that however angry he gets he will only be laughed at. But the little mark on the soul may be much the same in both. Each has done something to himself which, unless he repents, will make it harder for him to keep out of the rage next time he is tempted, and will make the rage worse when he does fall into it. Each of them, if he seriously turns to God, can have that twist in the central man straightened out again: each is, in the long run, doomed if he will not. The bigness or smallness of the thing, seen from the outside, is not what really matters."

- C. S. Lewis (1898-1963), Mere Christianity

"I beg you, most loving Savior, to reveal yourself to us, that knowing you we may desire you, that desiring you we may love you, that loving you we may ever hold you in our thoughts. "

- Columbanus (540-614)
