Quotes and Notes

"To rejoice is to treasure a thing, to assess its value to you, to reflect on its beauty and importance until your heart rests in it and tastes the sweetness of it. "Rejoicing" is a way of praising God until the heart is sweetened and rested, and until it relaxes its grip on anything else it thinks it needs."

-Tim Keller, Counterfeit Gods

"These wise men believed in Christ when they had never seen him; but that was not all. They believed in him when the scribes and Pharisees were unbelieving; but that again was not all. They believed in him when they saw him as a little infant on Mary's knees, and worshiped him as King. This was the crowning point of their faith. They saw no miracles to convince them. They heard no teaching to persuade them. They saw nothing but a newborn infant, helpless and weak, needing a mother's care like any of us. And yet when they saw that infant, they believed that they saw the divine Savior of the world!"

-J. C. Ryle (1816-1900), Expository Thoughts on the Gospels

"The magi show the way. They knew one thing: the king of the Jews had been born. The scribes had more and better information than the magi did, but the magi acted on what they knew. They traveled to see the baby king. They left work, home, and family, to follow a star for many months. They embarked on a perilous journey, traveling most likely on lumpy, foul-smelling camels, past brigands, through alien lands. They brought the most expensive gifts they could find. When they arrived, they worshiped, then gave gifts. They knew little, but acted on what little they knew."

-Dan Doriani, The Incarnation in the Gospels

"Earthly pride is undoubtedly alarmed when the Highness of heaven is revealed."

-Gregory the Great (540-604), Sermon
